The Mariners on the Internet

On November 30, 1994, the Seattle Mariners made history as the first professional sports team to run a web site on the Internet's World Wide Web.

The Mariners web site utilizes a "Home Plate" as the starting point for six different categories of information. The six categories are: News Center (provides press releases, and may eventually give progress reports during games), Game Center (schedule and season-ticket information), Team Center (player biographies, roster and spring training information), Administration (staff directory with job descriptions), Merchandise (photos and information on how to order official novelties and apparel) and Sponsors (information on companies involved in the development of the web site).

Special features of the Mariners web site include audio highlights and a "home page" for Ken Griffey Jr., which includes in-depth information on the club's superstar.

The Mariners Internet address is:

Ellis serves as the Chairman and Chief Executive Officer of the Baseball Club of Seattle, a position he has held since the group assumed control of the Mariners on July 1, 1992. Ellis also serves as the owner's representative to Major League Baseball for the Baseball Club of Seattle.

Ellis, 66, served variously as President, Chief Executive Officer and Chairman of the Board of Puget Sound Power & Light Company, the investor-owned electric utility which serves nearly 1.7 million people in western Washington, from 1976 to his retirement in 1993. He joined Puget Power in 1970 after 17 years as an attorney with the Seattle firm of Perkins Coie. He was also chairman of the Electric Power Research Institute, which conducts research and development for the electric utility industry.

He serves on the board of directors of Puget Sound Power & Light Company, Washington Mutual Savings Bank, SAFECO Corporation, UTILX Corporation and the Associated Electric & Gas Insurance Services Limited (AEGIS). Ellis has been chairman of the Edison Electric Institute and the Seattle Branch of the Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco.

Ellis has been just as active in the community, as he was the founding chairman of the Seattle-King County Economic Development Council. He is past chairman of the Greater Seattle Chamber of Commerce and the Washington Business Roundtable, and a past president of the Bellevue Boys & Girls Club. In January of 1992, he was named Regent of Washington State University and is chair of the Board of Trustees of Seattle University where he heads up their 21st Century Capital Campaign. He headed a successful four-year campaign that privately funded a city park in downtown Bellevue.

Ellis and his older brother Jim were presented the 1992 A.K. Guy Award by the YMCA of Greater Seattle for outstanding community service. Ellis has received numerous other awards and honors, including Seattle's First Citizen in 1987 presented by the Seattle-King County Board of Realtors, The Citizen of the Year Award in 1984 from the Municipal League of Seattle and King County, the Frederick T. Haley Leadership in Education Award in 1989, and he was inducted into Seattle's Franklin High School Hall of Fame in 1992.

The 1995 campaign will be the seventh full season for William Frederick "Woody" Woodward as the Mariners' Vice President of Baseball Operations. He is directly responsible for the Mariners' Major League personnel and operations, player development and scouting departments.

Woodward and his baseball staff have used a number of routes to compile the Mariners current 40-man roster, including trading for such key players as Randy Johnson, Bobby Ayala, Felix Fermin, Dan Wilson and Mike Blowers. A total of seven members of the 40-man roster were acquired through trades. The remainder of the roster has been completed through the June draft (20 players), free agency (nine), Rule V draft (one) and waiver claims (three).

A native of Miami, FL, the 52-year-old Woodward began his front office career in 1978 as the Cincinnati Reds' minor league field coordinator, a position he held for two years before his promotion to assistant general manager in 1980.

In October, 1984, he joined the New York Yankees as Vice President, Baseball Administration. Under his direction, the Yankees won the 1985 Topps Award for the best overall minor league system.

On October 10, 1986, he was promoted as the Yankees' Vice President and General Manager, a position he held until his resignation on October 21, 1987. One week later, he moved on to the Philadelphia Phillies and served as their Vice President, Player Personnel from October 28, 1987 until June 7, 1988. He joined the Mariners on July 28, 1988.

A former NCAA All-American, Woodward earned a bachelor's and master's degree in Education from Florida State University. Following his graduation, he signed his first professional contract with the Milwaukee Braves' organization in 1963 and made his Major League debut with Milwaukee later that same season.

He spent nearly five years with the Braves, moving with the club to Atlanta in 1966, before he was traded to Cincinnati in 1968. While with Cincinnati, he played in the 1970 NLCS sweep of Pittsburgh and the World Series loss to Baltimore.

Following his retirement in 1971, he entered private business, but came back to baseball in 1974-75 as the Reds' TV color analyst. He returned to his alma mater as a head baseball coach, posting the second-best winning percentage in Seminole history (170-57, .749) from 1975-78.

SEATTLE MARINERS
1994 TEAM HIGHLIGHTS

THE RECORD — Seattle ended the strike-shortened season with a 49-63 record, in third place in the American League West, two games behind division-leading Texas . . . the 49 wins are the most-ever for a Seattle club during a strike-shortened season (old mark was 44-65 in 1981).

LOU PINIELLA — In his eighth season as a M.L. manager and second with Seattle, Lou Piniella ran his M.L. career managerial record to 610-567 . . . his .518 career winning percentage is the seventh best among active managers with five years experience . . . won his 600th career game at Boston on July 22 . . . had his contract extended through 1996 with a club option for 1997 on October 17 . . . should he complete the 1996 season, Piniella will eclipse Darrell Johnson's three-plus season term as the longest stretch by a Mariner manager in club history . . . Johnson was the Mariners' first skipper during the 1977-79 seasons and for the first 104 games in 1980.

STREAKING BEFORE THE STRIKE — The Mariners finished the season with a season-high, 6-game win streak and won 9 of their final 10 games (August 2-11) . . . the 10-game flurry equalled the club's best 10-game stretch ever, also 9-1 from June 20-July 1, 1985 . . . Seattle gained 6.5 games in the standings over the final 10 days to finish two games behind Texas . . . in the final 10 games, Seattle batted .320 with 20 HRs, 74 RBI and averaged 7.6 runs per game . . . in August, Seattle finished with the 9-1 record and is now 49-43 in August since 1991 . . . historically, August is still the Mariners' worst month in terms of winning percentage (196-287, .406 overall).

AT HOME — The Mariners had a 22-22 record in the Kingdome before the ceiling tiles brought a crashing end to the 1994 Dome campaign on July 19 . . . since Lou Piniella became manager in 1993, the Mariners have posted a 68-57 record in the Kingdome, a .544 winning percentage.

VS. THE WEST — The Mariners finished with a 19-7 record against their division foes, including a 12-4 mark on the road in the A.L. West . . . the problem was Seattle played just 26 games against the West as compared to 49 games against the East (18-31 record) and 37 games vs. the Central (12-25) . . . Seattle was 9-1 vs. Texas, 7-2 vs. California and 3-4 vs. Oakland.

VS. LEFTIES — For the second consecutive season, the Mariners posted a winning record against lefthanded starters . . . Seattle was 21-16 vs. LH starters in 1994, after posting a M.L.-best 35-18 mark in 1993 . . . on the other hand, the Mariners were just 28-47 vs. righthanded starters in 1994 and are just 75-109 vs. RH starters over the last two seasons (47-62 in 1993) . . . this year, the Mariners batted .287 against lefties and just .261 vs. righthanders.

COMEBACK WINS — In 1992 and 1993, Seattle was a combined 2-150 in games in which it trailed after eight innings . . . in 1994, however, Seattle posted three such wins (May 19 vs. Texas, June 18 at Kansas City and July 7 at Boston) . . . Seattle rallied for a total of 24 come-from-behind wins in 1994, including 16 when they took the lead in the seventh inning or later . . . on nine occasions, the Mariners rallied from three or more runs down, including a 7-0 deficit vs. California on May 14 for the largest nine-inning comeback in franchise history.

ATTENDANCE — The 1994 Mariners averaged 25,096 fans during their 44 home dates, which was the third-largest average in club history (trailing just 26,517 in 1991 and 25,332 in 1993) . . . the Mariners' average ranked eighth in the A.L. and 18th in the Majors . . . Seattle was on pace to draw 2,031,966 fans in 1994, had it not been for the ceiling tiles and the players' strike.

SINGLE-GAME ATTENDANCE RECORD — On Opening Night, April 11 vs. Minnesota, the Mariners set the franchise's all-time regular season attendance record with a crowd of 57,806 . . . the old mark of 57,762 had stood since the franchise's inaugural game on April 6, 1977 . . . the largest baseball crowd ever in the Kingdome was 58,905 for the 50th All-Star Game on July 17, 1979 . . . Opening Night was the only sell out of the season and the ninth in club history.

ROAD ATTENDANCE — Not surprisingly, Seattle led the A.L. in road attendance by playing in front of 1,970,477 fans, an average of 29,410 for 67 road games . . . the average was the largest in club history.

TILES & TRIPULATIONS — At 4:35 p.m. on Tuesday, July 19, 1994, an acoustical ceiling tile fell inside the Kingdome . . . approximately 90 minutes later, three other tiles came crashing down on the seats behind home plate . . . the Mariners were forced to postpone the July 19 and July 20 games against the Baltimore Orioles and 13 other Kingdome dates had to be rescheduled as road games . . . the end result was a 20-game, 22-day, 8-city (including Cooperstown) odyssey that covered a Major League record 10,425 miles . . . the previous record for most miles on one road trip was 9,186 by Houston during the 1992 Republican convention . . . even with the early conclusion of the season, Seattle still traveled a total of 38,843 miles . . . with help from the Elias Sports

Bureau, Alaska Airlines and Amtrak, here's a look at some of the longest trips in M.L. history.

ROAD WEARY-ORS — The Mariners were forced to play their final 20 games of the 1994 season on the road due to falling ceiling tiles inside the Kingdome . . . only seven of those 20 games were scheduled road games, while 13 had to be moved to the opponents' home park . . . Seattle went 11-9 during its marathon trip, including a 10-3 record in the "road home" games on the trip and just 1-6 in the scheduled road games along the way . . . Seattle gained five games in the standings after the tiles fell.

HOME RUNS — The Mariners finished third in the A.L. with 153 HRs, behind Cleveland (167) and Detroit (161) . . . the 153 HRs was the fifth-highest total in Seattle history and the team was on pace for 221 HRs in a 162-game schedule, which would have shattered the Seattle record of 171 HRs in 1985.

Club HR Records Set or Tied in 1994:

- most road HRs with 90, breaking the 1993 record of 87 (68 road games in 1994) . . .

PINCH-HITTING — Seattle pinch-hitters set a club record with five pinch HRs (old was four done in 1978, 1979, 1980, 1986 and 1992) . . . the five HRs tied the Yankees for the league lead . . . Seattle PHs batted .278 (25x90), the highest PH average in club history . . . the 24 PH RBI trailed only the Yankees' 25 for the league lead and was the fourth highest in club history . . . Reggie Jefferson's .438 PH average (7x16) was the highest in the A.L. (min. 12 ABs).

DESIGNATED HITTERS — Mariners' designated hitters batted .265 (ninth in A.L.) with 19 HRs (tied for eighth in A.L.) and 63 RBI (13th in A.L.) . . . in 1993, Seattle DHs batted .253 with 19 HRs and 77 RBI (also 13th in A.L.).

MONTH-BY-MONTH — Seattle posted a 9-1 record in August, its second consecutive winning record for the month after 14 consecutive losing Augusts . . . Seattle was 14-13 in August, 1993 . . . here's a month-by-month breakdown:

DISABLED LIST — The Mariners used the disabled list 11 times in 1994, eight shy of the club record set in 1992 and 1993 . . . over the last three seasons, the Mariners have used the DL 49 times . . . 11 different players were disabled for a total of 317 games in 1994 . . . here's a breakdown:

MINOR LEAGUE HONORS — The Mariners' six minor league clubs posted a combined 356-331 record in 1994, the first winning record in eight years since 1986 . . . the Mariners combined minor league winning percentage of .518 ranked ninth among the 28 M.L. clubs . . . the Seattle farm system had 10 minor league players in Baseball America's annual Top 10 Prospects survey in each of the 17 minor leagues . . . the Baseball America results were determined by a poll of league managers . . . THE MICROCHIP MARINERS — As if there were any doubt about how the season would have ended, three computerized versions of the completion of the 1994 regular season had the Mariners winning the A.L. West . . . the three were Stats, Inc., Strat-O-Matic as played out by the Everett (WA) Herald and Ken Griffey Jr. Presents: Major League Baseball as played out by the employees of Nintendo (home chip advantage?) . . . according to Stats, Inc., Griffey hit 58 HRs while Strat-O-Matic had him with 62, including two on the final day of the season . . . Nintendo did not keep individual stats, but Junior's HR total was believed to be in triple digits (it helps to have your own game!) . . . here's a look:

NAMING THE MARINERS

The nickname "Mariners" was selected by the ownership of the Seattle franchise after a "Name the Team Contest" that resulted in over 15,000 entries and over 600 different names being submitted.

When the name "Mariners" was chosen, all the entries suggesting the name were reviewed for their reasons (in 25 words or less).

The winner was Roger Szmodis of Bellevue, WA. His entry read "I've selected Mariners because of the natural association between the sea and Seattle and her people, who have been challenged and rewarded by it."

HOW TO FIGURE

Batting Average — Divide the total number of hits collected by a player by the total number of at bats. Example: Player A is 12-of-40 or .300.

Slugging Percentage — Divide the number of total bases by the total number of at bats. Example: Player A's 12 hits include six singles (6), one double (2), two triples (6) and three home runs (12) for a total of 26 total bases in 40 at bats and a .650 slugging percentage.

On-Base Percentage — Divide the total of hits, all bases on balls and hit by pitch by the total of at bats, all bases on balls, hit by pitch and sacrifice flies.

Earned Run Average — The total number of earned runs allowed by a pitcher is divided by the total number of innings pitched and then multiplied by nine for his per-game average. Example: Pitcher B has allowed 12 earned runs in 45 innings of work for a 2.40 ERA.

Fielding Average — The sum of putouts and assists is divided by the sum of putouts, assists and errors. Example: Player C has made 16 putouts and 24 assists and two errors. That's 40 putouts and assists divided by 42 chances for a fielding average of .952.

Magic Number — Determine the number of games yet to be played by the division leader, add one, then subtract the number of games ahead in the loss column of the standings from the closest opponent.

PEORIA SPORTS COMPLEX

The City of Peoria, the Seattle Mariners and the San Diego Padres proudly opened baseball's best spring training facility in 1994. Located 20 miles northwest of downtown Phoenix, the 145-acre Peoria Sports Complex provides separate practice facilities for the Padres and Mariners that include 6-1/2 practice fields, batting cages and a clubhouse.

Peoria Stadium, which was designed by HOK Sports Group of Kansas City, is the jewel of the $32-million complex and accommodates 10,000 fans (7,000 seats and 3,000 on lawn). Dimensions for the park are 340 ft. down each line, 385 ft. in the power alleys and 410 ft. to center.

Peoria is only the second spring training site in Mariners history, as the club trained in Tempe from 1977-92. Seattle played all road games in 1993, but used the Peoria facility for morning workouts as it was under construction.

DIRECTIONS: Take Bell Road exit off I-17 north; travel west to 83rd Avenue; travel south and enter facility at Stadium Way.

BROADCASTERS

DAVE NIEHAUS has been a Mariners broadcaster since the club's inception into the American League in 1977. During his 18 seasons behind the microphone for the Mariners, he has missed only 14 games (one in 1982, three in 1988, four in 1992, three in 1993 and three in 1994). Entering the 1995 season, he has witnessed 2,798 of the 2,812 games played by the Mariners. He is recognized as one of the best and most exciting broadcasters in the game of baseball, and has become instantly identified with the Mariners. His expressions like "My Oh My" and "It will fly away" (for home runs) have become familiar throughout the Northwest.

Dave was born and raised in Princeton, Indiana, and is a graduate of Indiana University, where he worked for the campus radio station. He then went to work for the Armed Forces radio and TV service, calling the action for Los Angeles Dodgers games before moving to New York to handle Yankees baseball as well as basketball and hockey from Madison Square Garden. After leaving the Armed Forces Network, he returned to Los Angeles to broadcast the Dodgers, Rams and Lakers. From 1969-76, he teamed with Dick Enberg and Don Drysdale to call the action for the California Angels on KMPC Radio. Dave also broadcasted UCLA football and basketball (1973-76). He resides in Bellevue with wife Marilyn. They have three children: Andy, Matt and Greta.

RICK RIZZS (pronounced RIZ) returns to the Mariners broadcast team in 1995, after spending three seasons calling the play-by-play on radio for the Detroit Tigers. He previously teamed with Dave Niehaus on radio and television for the Mariners from 1983-91.

Rick is a 1975 graduate of Southern Illinois University in Carbondale. From 1975-80, he handled baseball play-by-play duties at the double-A level for Alexandria, Amarillo and Memphis. He became the sports director at WBNS radio in Columbus, OH in 1981, where he called Ohio State football and triple-A baseball for two seasons. He was named the Ohio "Sportscaster of the Year" in 1981 by the Ohio Sportscasters Association. Rick was hired to broadcast Mariners games in 1983 and spent nine seasons with the club. From 1992-94, he teamed with Bob Rathbun to call the action for the Tigers on WJR in Detroit. In 1993, he also worked with the legendary Ernie Harwell. Rick resides in Issaquah with his wife Kristi and son Nick.

RON FAIRLY begins his third season with the Mariners in 1995. The former Major Leaguer brings 37 years of professional baseball experience to the Mariners broadcast booth, 21 as a player and 16 as a broadcaster.

Ron was born in Macon, GA and attended the University of Southern California as a finance major. After earning All-America honors on the diamond for USC, he was signed by the Los Angeles Dodgers in 1958. Fairly played in the Major Leagues from 1958-78 with the Dodgers (1958-69), Montreal Expos (1969-74), St. Louis Cardinals (1975-76), Oakland Athletics (1976), Toronto Blue Jays (1977) and California Angels (1978). In 2,442 games, he compiled a lifetime average of .266 with 215 home runs and 1,044 RBI. He was a two-time All-Star (1973 and 1977) and played in four World Series (1959, 1963, 1965-66).

After retiring as a player, Ron worked as the sports director at KTLA radio in Los Angeles for three years. From 1982-86, he teamed with Bob Starr to broadcast Angels games on KMPC. He then moved to San Francisco, where he handled the Giants play-by-play and color duties on both radio and television for six years. Ron resides in Westlake Village, CA with wife Mary. The couple has three sons: Steve, Mike and Patrick.

CHIP CARAY begins his third season as a broadcaster with the Mariners in 1995. He is the third generation of the Caray family to work behind the microphone in Major League Baseball, joining his father, Skip (Atlanta Braves), and his grandfather, Harry (Chicago Cubs).

Chip graduated from the University of Georgia in 1987 and worked as a weekend television sports anchor in Panama City, FL and Greensboro, NC for two years. He joined the NBA's Orlando Magic in 1989 as the television play-by-play broadcaster and has continued in that role for the last six years. In addition to spending the last two seasons with the Mariners, his baseball experience also includes a season on radio with the Minnesota Twins' double-A Orlando affiliate (1990) and two years on cable television with the Atlanta Braves (1991-92). He resides in Orlando, FL with wife Marla.

KEN LEVINE returns for his fourth season as a Mariners broadcaster in 1995. An Emmy-Award winner, Levine is perhaps best known for his script writing on such television shows as M*A*S*H and Cheers.

Ken's broadcasting career began as a student at UCLA from 1968-72, where he called a variety of sports on radio for the Bruins. Following his graduation, Levine worked as a disc jockey until turning his attention to script writing in 1974. During a very successful Hollywood career, he decided to further pursue his broadcasting interest and was hired by triple-A Syracuse in 1988. He spent 1989-90 with triple-A Tidewater and also filled in on radio for the Toronto Blue Jays and California Angels. He became a full-time M.L. broadcaster with the Baltimore Orioles in 1991 and served in the same capacity with the Mariners in 1992. Levine filled in on Mariners broadcasts from time to time during the 1993-94 seasons. He resides in Los Angeles, CA with wife Deborah, son Matthew and daughter Diana.

KEVIN CREMIN begins his 13th season as producer-engineer for all Mariners radio broadcasts in 1995. He is responsible for the technical aspects of each broadcast, as well as relaying updated game information to Dave Niehaus and Rick Rizzs.

The Tulsa, OK native attended the University of Oklahoma and studied journalism. After spending eight years in the circulation department of the Tulsa World & Tribune, he joined the Mariners Radio Network full-time in 1983. He is currently senior engineer in the American League. He resides in Seattle with wife Margaret and daughters Colleen and Kate.

MARK ENGELBREKT is entering his tenth season of involvement with Mariners television broadcasts in 1995. He currently serves as the producer and director for all telecasts and also coordinates the broadcasts with flagship station KIRO-TV in Seattle.

Mark graduated from the University of Washington in 1974 with a B.A. in communications. After working as a floor director for KING and KOMO, he joined KSTW in 1977 as producrer/director of the Ten O'clock News. He produced Mariners telecasts from 1982-85 and served as producer/director from 1989-91. He joined the Mariners organization as television network producer in 1993. He resides in Seattle with wife Dianne and son Max.

A CAPSULE HISTORY OF PROFESSIONAL BASEBALL IN SEATTLE

1890 The first professional baseball team in Seattle was organized. The Seattle Reds played in the Class-C Pacific Northwest League.

1892 The Reds (first-half champions) won the P.N.L. Pennant when the Portland club declined to enter the playoffs because of financial problems.

1896 Club was re-named "Braves" and moved into its first stadium (Athletic Park – 14th and Yesler).

1903 The Pacific Coast League was formed and Seattle was a charter member. Thus, Seattle had two professional baseball teams for one season (the Braves were now in the Pacific National League and folded after one year).

1906-17 Seattle ended its membership in the P.C.L. and joined the Class-B Northwestern League.

1919 Seattle re-joined the Pacific Coast League. The club was named "Indians" and played a 225-game schedule (the extended season format continued through the 1957 P.C.L. season).

1937 Emil Sick bought the Seattle franchise for $115,000 and immediately changed the nickname to "Rainiers" (Sick also owned and operated the Rainier Brewing Company).

1938 On June 15, the Rainiers moved into the newly-built Sicks' Stadium (seating capacity of 11,500). Local sports hero Fred Hutchinson began his rookie season and posted a 25-7 record.

1939-41 The Rainiers won three consecutive P.C.L. pennants.

1955 Hutchinson returned as manager of the Rainiers and led the club to another P.C.L. crown. In addition, the first official proposition for a domed stadium in Seattle was made (bond issues for the project failed in 1960 and 1964).

1960 Sick sold the club to the Boston Red Sox. Seattle became the Red Sox triple-A affiliate.

1965-68 The California Angels purchased the club and Bob Lemon managed Seattle to its last baseball championship.

1967 Public approval was given for funds needed to build a domed stadium (completion was scheduled to be prior to the 1972 season).

1969 The Seattle Pilots came into existence and began to play in the American League. Sicks' Stadium was expanded to seat 28,500, and 677,944 fans came out to watch the 64-98 expansion team. Third baseman Tommy Harper led the junior circuit with 73 stolen bases.

1970 On March 31, financial difficulties forced the Pilots to move to Milwaukee (club was re-named "Brewers"). Plans to build a domed stadium were temporarily interrupted.

1972-76 Seattle fielded a team in the Class-A Northwest League.

1977 On April 6, Major League Baseball returned to Seattle when the Mariners played the California Angels before a Kingdome crowd of 57,762. The Mariners starting pitcher that night was Diego Segui, a member of the 1969 Pilots.
